NEWS OF BYU
FOR 1960-61

Vol. 12, No. 177

August, 1960

Provo, Utah

here is a new quad which the returning students will see for the first time. On the right is the new College of Business Building which will go into operation this fall.

in the distance is the new Library, and in foreground is excavation of Administration and General Services Building. The walks have been completed and grass planted.

Seniors Advised to Apply Early for Graduation

Seniors who have not applied for graduation should do so soon after returning to campus this fall, according to Dr. Alma P. Burton, director of admissions and records application are available at Macmillan Building. They are issued in the order in which application is vital so that students may make up dates.

A graduation summary report prepared by the Office of Missions and Records which is a copy of the student's date as well as the required documents for graduation.

Seniors who do not apply for graduation before Jan. 15 will require to pay a late fee. It is particularly important seniors apply early this year since there will be only two dates in which to make applications. Dr. Burton said, "for the last three quarters in which he'll enroll in classes to meet his requirements."

Orientation Slated Sept. 21-24 for New Students, Parents

Brents as well as students will be included in the Brigham Young University Orientation program which is scheduled for Sept. 21-24. It was announced by Alma King, adviser of student problems.

The annual Orientation is designed to introduce new students to the university, the curriculum, student government and all school activities, and to test the lines of new students.

On the opening day, special sessions have been arranged for entry of new students at 10 a.m. and for foreign student at 3 p.m. in Smith Family Living Center. All new students will begin the name at 1:30 p.m. in the George Smith Fieldhouse. Sessions will be held from 8 a.m. to 9 a.m. on Sept. 22 and 23 and in 8 a.m. until noon Sept. 24. Tests in mathematics and foreign languages will be given the afternoon of Sept. 24, Mr. King said.

An assembly is planned for Sept. 21 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fieldhouse.

The following evening, students living off-campus and those meeting in the Fieldhouse and student living on campus will meet in their respective residence halls at 7:30 p.m. for instructions regarding housing rules and regulations.

Election of temporary freshman officers will be held Sept. 23 at 7:30 p.m. in the Fieldhouse followed by a talent show featuring new talent and activities, and personal interests.

On Sept. 24th at 8 p.m. a get-acquainted dance is planned. If the weather is good the dance will be held on the tennis courts.

Special sections have also been planned for students who took the counseling service tests during the summer.

Tests given new students during BYU Freshman Orientation the week of Sept. 21-24 will also serve as a criterion in selecting candidates for the program.

BYU Streamlines New Curriculum For Start of Semester

The biggest change at Brigham Young University this year will be the adoption of the semester system in place of the quarter plan.

Under the semester plan, the school year is divided into two periods, Sept. 21 to Feb. 3 and Feb. 6 to June 3. The quarter plan usually requires later start-ups about Oct. 1, and forces school into the first week of June.

The entire curriculum has been revised to fit the new system and the general catalog has been entirely rewritten.

The combination of courses, dropping of fringe classes, and streamlining of the curriculum has eliminated about 640 classes from the former total of 2905 quarter system courses.

Students should keep in mind that semester hours are worth three quarter hours. To take an example: If you took a continuous course in, say, a modern language for five hours each quarter, that would be fifteen quarter hours. But under the new plan, the same material would be divided into two sections rather than three. Each semester grants five hours of credit or ten semester hours for the year.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson

said the decision for the change was motivated by a desire for a more realistic relationship with high schools, all of which operate on the semester system.

With the current emphasis on advancement for the talented student, more and more of them will be graduated in four years.

Under the new plan they may enter BYU immediately upon graduation rather than be required to wait until the opening of the spring or later quarters.

The move will bring BYU in line with the great majority of universities in the country. The merit of the semester system is evident from the fact that 82 per cent of all accredited universities operate on this plan.

Experience of most universities has demonstrated that the semester plan is educationally sound. It provides more solid courses and combines fringe classes, allows study and assimilation of subject matter over a longer period of time, simplifies the curriculum, eliminates much "starting and stopping" machinery, provides better opportunities for individualization of courses with most textbooks, economy of operation, better class schedule planning.

Honors students will be given special treatment in experimentation, research and observation, and will be allowed special library privileges as are faculty members.

Each student will work closely with faculty advisor, the president said.

"The curriculum will not force honors students into a common track. Instead, it will allow the primary objective will be to tailor the program to fit the needs of the individual student," Dr. Wilkinson said.

Qualifying students will be identified on the basis of aptitude and achievement tests, high school grades and activities, and personal interests.

The program will be open to high school and college freshmen classes all across the nation.

Tests given new students during BYU Freshman Orientation the week of Sept. 21-24 will also serve as a criterion in selecting candidates for the program.

BYU Faces Great Year With Expansion of Faculty, Campus, Study

Brigham Young University is headed for another great year.

Growth and improvement will show up in the student body, in campus expansion, the enlarged faculty, and academic advancements.

Applications for admissions are far ahead of the same time last year, indicating that there likely will be an increase in enrollment. Last autumn quarter, the BYU registration hit 10,265.

BYU students come from every state in the nation and from 40 states of foreign countries. About 60 percent come from outside the state of Utah.

In order to handle this influx, the university also is expanding its facilities. A new major building, the College of Business Building, will go into operation this fall, adding 77,000 square feet of floor space.

While they will not be ready for this year, other new structures also are being rushed. The new Library, containing 200,000 square feet, is now up to the roof level and will be completed September, 1961. Also due for completion next summer is the new Administration and Student Services Building.

Crews have been busy since graduation time with extension of electrical lines, sanitary and storm sewer systems, heat distribution and water systems to serve the greater campus.

President Ernest L. Wilkinson has announced that the following projects have been approved, and working drawings are being prepared by architects: the Alumni Building with 11,000 square feet; the W. Stuckey Center, 234,000 square feet; the Fine Arts Center, 222,000 square feet; married-student housing, containing 460 apartments totaling 317,000 square feet.

Also in constant and intensive planning are high academic standards. BYU this year has adopted several new programs. The greatest change will come in the start of the semester system this fall for the first time in the interest of a more solid educational economy of operation, and elimination of much time-consuming registration machinery.

Another program which will get into full swing this year is the Honors Program for gifted students, directed by Dr. Robert T. McRae. Under this, the university will seek out the best young minds, and, with the close supervision of advisers, move these scholars faster and deeper into their major subjects.

Students will receive greater attention through the Skills Improvement Program. Administered through the General College, this program will give additional help to those with problems in reading, mathematics, spelling, etc. Director of the program is Lynn A. Ravasten.

Faculty Totals 580;

65 Teachers New

Latest count of Brigham Young University faculty shows about 580.

New appointments announced this summer by President Ernest L. Wilkinson total around 65. These, however, exactly the same number of faculty members will take leaves of absence this year.

New Regulations to Give Credit For Both Forum, Devotional

New regulations involving courses in religion, Devotional and Forum assemblies were announced during the summer by President Ernest L. Wilkinson. They include:

1. All freshmen and new transfer students will take a year's course, two hours each week, in Forum assemblies and Principles of the Gospel.

2. Attendance at Wednesdays' Devotional assemblies will permit one semester hour credit per year (1/2 hour per semester) with a maximum of three hours credit toward satisfying the requirements in religion.

3. Attendance at Monday forum assemblies will permit one semester hour credit per year (1/2 hour per semester) with a maximum of three hours credit toward satisfying the general education requirements in a two or more of the following fields: Physical Science, Biological Sciences, Mathematics and the Arts, Social Sciences.

4. No course will be referenced with the College of Religious Instruction and any courses in that college, and attendance at Devotions, will satisfy religious education requirements.

Max Pinigar . . . Student body president heads Council.

Blaine Quarstrom . . . Vice president for social activity.

Craig Christensen . . . Vice president for finance.

Keith Terry . . . Student relations vice president.

David Jacobs . . . Promotion culture is vice president of the job.

Student Leaders Plan Jackson Hole Sessions

Jackson Hole, Wyoming, has been selected as the site of the Brigham Young University Student Leadership Conference planned for Sept. 15-18. Marshall Chatwin, cochairman of the meet, announced.

Elder Marion D. Hanks, a member of the First Council of the Seventy of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will be the principal speaker at the event. It is expected that 275 students leaders will attend.

The students will hold the kickoff meeting and registration at 7 p.m., Sept. 15, in the new College of Business Building. A dance will follow in the foyer of the Smith Family Living Center. Participants will board buses at 5 a.m., Sept. 16 and depart for Jackson Hole. The buses are expected to arrive at 2 p.m. and the afternoon will be free for fishing, boating, and hiking, Mr. Chatwin said.

Meetings will be held in the Jackson Lake Lodge beginning at 7 p.m., Sept. 16. Students will be housed in Colter Bay Cabins.

Themed "Men to Match Mountains," the conference will place emphasis on leadership. Academic sessions which will be supervised by Dr. Clyde Parker, chairman of the BYU Counseling Service.

A program and dance will cap the activities on Sept. 17. Jane Thompson, BYU show director, will be in charge of the program. The final session will be selected from students in attendance.

On Sept. 18 a testimony meeting will be held in the open air auditorium at which Elder Hanks will speak.

Buses will depart for Provo in the afternoon.

Special invited guests and speakers include Dr. John T. Bernard, author and editor; Dr. the president; Dr. Harvey L. Taylor, vice president of BYU; Paul J. Felt, student coordinator; and Dr. Daniel Ludwig, associate professor of religion.

Student committees for the annual conference are, Dr. Bruce Egan, co-chairman; Dixie Holt, business manager; Dot Nielsen, Lynn Fischer, and Ruth Stanfield, secretaries; Nan Greene, registration; Gary Hopkinson, photographer; Marge Potter, housing; and George Mangani, dances.

Arta Ballif is president of the stake Relief Society, Mrs. W. Taylor, president of the YWMA; Den Shaw, YMMIA superintendent; Lawrence Moss, Sunday School superintendent.

BYU Second Stake High Council was named by Stake President B. West Bell. They are Ivan B. Bennett, Negro; Kieran, Monroe, John F. Paxman, Gardner, Harold F. Western, Chauncey C. Riddle, Alma W. King, Blauer, Bangerter, Martin Miller, Kurt Weinzinger, and Marion T. Miller.

Robert Taylor is Sunday School superintendent; Luellie King, Relief Society president; LeRoy Porter, YMMIA superintendent; and Phyllis Jacobson, YMMIA president.

President W. Noble Waite of BYU Third Stake has announced as the stake High Council J. Earl Lewis, Conner Mathews, Floyd Taylor, G. Byron Done, Lyman Taylor, James R. Winter, Edith Ricks, Howard C. Nielsen, Clyde Parker, John E. McKechnie, and Harold Goodman.

Afon Porter is Relief Society president, Dallin Clark, Sunday School superintendent, and Mrs. G. Byron Done, YMMIA president.

Forum to Bring Top Lecturers For Assemblies

Humorists, politicians, writers and many other notable personalities will be guest speakers this year on Brigham Young University's Forum Assembly program held each Monday at 10 a.m. in George Albert Smith Fieldhouse.

Speakers scheduled thus far and the dates on which they will appear are as follows:

Oct. 17, Marquis W. Childs, Washington correspondent, author of the syndicated column, "Washington Calling;" Nov. 21, Will Rogers Jr.; Nov. 14, Malcom Muggeridge, British journalist and former editor of "Punch;" Nov. 29, Major General J.E. Medaris, former commanding general of the U.S. Army missile command at Redstone Arsenal, Alabama.

Jan. 9, Harrison E. Salisbury, Pulitzer Prize winner for his work on the Russian-Chinese conflict for the New York Times; Jan. 23, Anna Freud, the internationally famous concern comedienne; Jan. 30, Tom Carroll, vice president of the Ford Foundation; Feb. 13, Vance Packard, author and social critic, author of "The Hidden Persuaders" and "The Silent Revolution."

Feb. 20, Dr. Terrell; Feb. 27, Sir Charles Arden-Clarke, first governor of Ghana and former Governor General of the Gold Coast, Africa; March 20, Stewart Alsop, Political writer for the "Saturday Evening Post"; April 17, William Shirey, foreign correspondent, a authority on world affairs, author of "Hobson Diary" and other books; May 1, Dr. Comanduras; and May 8, Boris Goldovsky, noted pianist, commentator for the Metropolitan Opera broadcasts.

"Everyone should plan to be at the Fieldhouse at least 15 or 20 minutes before the time of his 20 alphabetical listing," according to Dean Burton. Those who are late or who miss the scheduled time for their registration may register after 3:30 p.m. each day.

Finest Musicians Slated for Lyceum

Some of the world's top musicians will be presented in concert in the Brigham Young University-Community Concert series for 1960-1961 school year.

Artists will include Andre Previn, pianist; Christian Ferras violinist; Florence Kopfle, concert organist; Byron Janis, pianist; Jan Peerce, tenor; Fernando Germani, organist; and Leontyne Price, soprano.

Previn, whose concert is set Oct. 24, will be the first guest artist to appear. He is established as one of the greatest young recording concert pianist and conductors as well as being an outstanding concert pianist and top recording artist. The latest movie for which he was musical director was Samuel Goldwyn's "Popcorn and Beans."

Scheduled to appear at BYU Oct. 27, is Christian Ferras, violinist, made his American debut with the Boston Symphony Orchestra under the baton of Charles Munch last year. He has performed with Europe's major orchestras under such eminent maestri as von Karajan, Cluytens, Enesco, Fricsay and Solti.

Miss Kopfle, who will appear Dec. 15, is a well-known concert contralto soloist with the Robert Shaw Chorale. She made a brilliant recital debut in 1954 and has been soloist with most of the great orchestras and made many recordings.

Anna Russell will appear on the Lyceum program as well as the regular Monday Forum assembly January 16. Most critics have labeled her "the funniest woman in the world." A leading soprano, she has performed with the New York City Opera, she is best known as "one who sticks little pins and needles into the Muse of Music."

Byron Janis will be presented in concert Feb. 23. Still in his 20's, he made his debut at nine Pittman Auditorium, Atlanta, Ga. During the past year he has appeared as guest soloist with such orchestras as the Boston and Chicago Symphonies.

The Utah Symphony Orchestra is scheduled for two concerts, Oct. 28 and Feb. 13. The Orchestra has always been a favorite at BYU as well as throughout the state.

Jan Peerce, "America's peerless tenor," will sing at the Metropolitan Opera, he is famed not only for his vocal mastery but also for the range and versatility of his art and his command of many styles.

On April 24, Fernando Germani, organist of St. Peter's in the Vatican, will appear. He has received great acclaim throughout the world and is considered as one of the greatest living organists, the highest possible recognition in the music world.

Leontyne Price, whose career has had a meteoric rise, will sing May 5. In the few years since she was a student at Juilliard, Miss Price has become a star on seven continents, making over 100 recordings. Her tour will make her debut at La Scala this year and at the Metropolitan Opera in 1961.

Other artists in the series will be announced later, Professor Clark said.

Student Officers Slate Busy Activity Schedule

Major attractions such as bands will be featured at three student assemblies, Homecoming, Winter Carnival and Junior Prom, to top the list of events planned for the year at Brigham Young University.

Students will have scheduled events of all kinds throughout the school year starting with Freshman Orientation September 21-24. The fall will feature assembly programs, campus tours, dances, and other events including the recently tested football.

After all students have returned to campus, Hello-Week will be observed. The annual student assembly featuring banders and songs from all states in the union and many foreign countries, and a final emphasis on "Togetherness" will be Sept. 26. The evening assembly will be Sept. 29, and the Hello Week dance is Sept. 30.

Old grads and alumni will swarm on campus Oct. 10-15 for Homecoming Week, featuring reunions, parties, the big parade, football game, dance and queens.

The Autumn Leaf Hike as Dance is set Oct. 8, with the Freshmen Baccalaureate Oct. 10, and the Sophomore Cotillion Nov. 4. Nov. 11 is the AM sponsored Men's Night.

December 2 will be marked in many a girl's calendar. That's the date of the formal girl's choice event known as "ference Ball."

Registration Set Sept. 26-27 In Strict Alphabetical Order

First semester registration at Brigham Young University will be September 26 and 27, according to Dr. Alma P. Burton, dean of admissions and records.

Students will register in strict alphabetical order beginning with the A's at 8:00 a.m. Monday morning, September 26 in the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse.

Those students who attended spring or summer quarter will be admitted to registration on the basis of their activity cards. Other students will be required to show their activity cards.

"Everyone should plan to be at the Fieldhouse at least 15 or 20 minutes before the time of his 20 alphabetical listing," according to Dean Burton. Those who are late or who miss the scheduled time for their registration may register after 3:30 p.m. each day.

Campus Hums with Building Projects

On the north and east sides of campus the canal is being re-excavated, utilities covered, and land leveled for a new major highway which will run from the Social Hall, north between the steam plant and Industrial Education Building, past the Heritage Halls to north entrance of campus. Several Wymount buildings have been removed.

Work is now proceeding on the third floor of the new Administration and General Services Building at the north end of the new quad. The building will be constructed in an "X" shape and will house offices of the Administrative Council, Admissions and Records, Treasurer, Dean of Students, Summer School, Public Relations, etc.

Good news for BYU student drivers is this photo of work on the new four-lane road on the west edge of campus and blacktopping of the parking lot. This work is being rushed to completion before the beginning of classwork.

The new underpass, left, leading to the Fieldhouse steps is under construction and will be completed before school starts. The walk goes under the new west road. At right is the Y Bell Tower.

The Maeser Memorial Building, above, is receiving a new facade on east side. The plan is to make it which was side of the building. This will require addition of a larger portico and another row of columns.

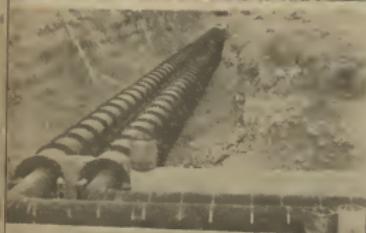

During the summer the campus has been cut in several places with the installation of thousands of feet of pipes for the new heating system which will serve the new section of campus. Everything will be back in order for start of school.

The new Library is up to the roof level, and when students return much of the exterior work will be finished. With more than 200,000 square feet of floor space, it will be the largest building on campus and will eventually contain a million volumes.

PIVOTAL PLAYER—Dave Eastis, key figure in BYU's basketball lineup, should prove to be the spark in Stan Watts' club again this year. Eastis, an all-conference center last year, set several scoring records while playing the post for the Cat quint.

Cagers Expect to Finish Higher in '61 Standings

The bread and butter sport in the Beehive State—basketball—moves onto the athletic scene in early December with the Cougars hoping for a return to form and perhaps a first division finish.

Faced with 14 home games and the usual cross-country junket, the Cougars will open a 26-game schedule Dec. 2-3 in Seattle with Washington. The 1960-61 list of opponents is almost as tough as last year's schedule.

Of special note on the schedule are seven home games during the first three weeks of the season. Coach Stan Watts and the Mountain Cat host Oklahoma, Miami (Florida), Texas Christian, Memphis State, New Mexico State, Kansas and Kent State.

Stan and his boys return to tournament action between the Christmas and New Year's holidays with a part in the Poinsettia Tournament in South Carolina. BYU joins Louisville, St. Louis, Furman and Citadel at Greenville for that tourney.

On the way east to the Poinsettia, the Cougars will meet University of Louisville in Kentucky.

It still a little early to forecast BYU's chances in the campaign ahead, especially with last year's 8-17 record still something of a memory.

But there appears to be some help on the way in the form of some pretty good freshman players. To name a few, there are the following: guards Ron Steinko and Gary Bachelder; forwards Jim Kelso and Bruce Burton; and pivot man Kirk McElrath.

Dave Eastis, who was all-Skyline and set several scoring records as a junior, will again be a key figure in the Watts attack. Also numbered among the other lettermen is Gary Eastman.

Another player who should help out on the forward line is Tim Lampen, the Finnish star who returned to school last spring. And there may be a transfer or two to fortify the men's basketball team.

1960-61 basketball schedule:

- Dec. 2—Washington at Seattle
- Dec. 3—Washington at Seattle
- Dec. 9—Oklahoma at Provo
- Dec. 10—Miami (Florida) at Provo

Dec. 12—Texas Christian at Provo

Dec. 15—Memphis State at Provo

Dec. 17—New Mexico State at Provo

Dec. 20—Kansas at Provo

Dec. 22—Kent State at Provo

Cougar Footballers Report Sept. 1

It won't be any time at all—less than a month, in fact—before Brigham Young University's 1960 football team reports to head coach Tally Stevens in Provo for the start of another season.

Just how the Cougars, who finished the Skyline campaign of '59 in a tie for fifth place, can expect to fare this fall remains to be seen. But the team will have a little more than two weeks to prepare for their opening game after they report on Sept. 1.

The strength of this year's club will not be known until the Cougars meet Cal Poly on Sept. 16 in Provo. There will follow a slate of ten games that will be climaxed by a final with University of Hawaii in Honolulu.

Following the opener at home the Cougars travel to the Bay Area for a game with the San Jose State team. They will return home, then travel to Fort Collins and a conference game with Colorado State.

Then comes another big one with the University of Utah.

Although the game with the Redskins is listed as a "home" game, the Cougars' first test will be played in Salt Lake City. Kickoff between these two rival teams is set for 8:30 the night of Oct. 7, conference weekend.

Utah State has been selected as an opponent for the Cougar homecoming game on Oct. 15, and there will follow five Skyline Conference games involving Montana, Utah State, New Mexico, Denver and Wyoming. The Lobo and Cowboys games will be staged in Provo.

The start of the '60 decade finds BYU starting a new building program on the gridiron. And unless next fall's team has more depth and talent than those of previous years, the Cougars will be in the underdog role for a majority of their games.

Of the eleven starters on last fall's team, only two—center Dick Magoffin and quarterback Jim Kelso—will return. In all, 20 returners from the 1959 team are not returning, and there are a number of positions that need strengthening.

Some help will be forthcoming from the freshman class, but the number is not large enough to offset the loss of last year's veterans.

Dec. 27—Louisville at Louisville
Dec. 29-30—Poinsettia Tournament (Louisiana State, Citadel, Furman) at Greenville, S.C.
Jan. 7—Montana at Provo
Jan. 13—Colorado State at Fort Collins
Jan. 14—Wyoming at Laramie Jan. 25—Utah at Provo
Jan. 27—Utah State at Provo
Feb. 2—New Mexico at Albuquerque
Feb. 4—Denver at Denver
Feb. 10—Utah State at Logan
Feb. 15—Wyoming at Provo
Feb. 19—Colorado State at Provo
Feb. 23—Utah at Salt Lake City
Feb. 25—Montana at Missoula
Mar. 3—Denver at Provo
Mar. 4—New Mexico at Provo

Belnap Named Academic Star

Bud Belnap, veteran quarterback with the Cougar football team, picked up another honor recently when he was named to the regional squad of the Academic All-American football team.

A key player in the Y backfield this fall, Belnap was selected by writers in the area as well as his athletic prowess.

In addition to his scholastic attainments the members of the annual selection awarded him a complete set of American People's Encyclopedia.

A two-year letterman, Bud has a 3.3 average, which he raised to a 3.9 average, which he scored during one quarter of the 1959-60 school year.

Bud will be calling signals for the varsity when the Cougar varsity opens practice in September.

Y Grad Named College Coach

Boyd Adams, a former BYU graduate student who received his M.S. degree last June, has been named to the physical education and coaching staff at Nevada Northern University in Las Vegas.

Adams, who will begin his assignment at NSU next month is former basketball coach at College of Southern Utah in Cedar City. He coached at Dixie High School for the two years before joining the staff at CSU.

A 1955 graduate of Utah State University, he served two years in the U.S. Air Force. He was active in sports at USU and CSU.

Homecoming Slated Early This Year

An early homecoming bearing the theme "A Y'd Wide World" has been scheduled for Oct. 10-15 at Brigham Young University, only 10 days after the fall semester begins.

David Merrill, co-chairman of the event, urged students involved in Homecoming plans to begin work on preparations before they return to school because of the early homecoming date.

In keeping with the theme, BYU alumni from all over the world will be invited to the campus to participate in the homecoming festivities and witness the intellectual, spiritual and physical growth of the institution.

Homecoming activities will include the annual stage spectacle, Fieldhouse Frolic, and alumni banquet. Student activities will include a dance, decorated residence halls, the mammoth parade through downtown Provo; and a queen's banquet. High lighting Homecoming Day will be Arizona State versus BYU football game in the Cougar Stadium.

More than a dozen beautiful girls have entered the race for Homecoming Queen. Candidates must have a cumulative grade point average of at least 2.5, they must have attended BYU at least one full quarter, and they must be a junior or senior student.

Paul E. Felt is general chairman of Homecoming, Mr. Merrill is co-chairman, and L. D. Davis is the present student chairman. Faculty committee members are Floyd Taylor, Dale Nelson, Kien Worsley, Glenn Clegg, Alma King, T. Earl Parry, John R. Thompson, Jane Thompson, Ray Beckham, Diane Chiatow and Shirley Oswald. Student members are Jane Swift, Gary Carver, Herb Christiansen, Merton Dockstader, Letty Lant and Gordon Christensen.

This means, then, that the better part of the season will be spent rebuilding the team, hoping for the rapid development of new personnel.

Here is the 1960 schedule:

Sept. 1	California Poly at Provo
Sept. 23	San Jose State at San Jose
Oct. 1	Colorado State U. at Ft. Collins
Oct. 7	University of Utah at Salt Lake

Oct. 15—Arizona State at Provo

Oct. 22—Montana State U. at Missoula

Oct. 26—Utah State University at Logan

Nov. 2—New Mexico U. at Provo

Nov. 12—Denver University at Denver

Nov. 19—University of Wyoming at Provo

Nov. 25—University of Hawaii at Honolulu

BALL-HAWKING LINEMAN—Dick Magoffin, two-year letterman at center and team captain for 1960, will lead the Cougars through an 11-game schedule when the season opens in September. Varsity prospects will report to coach Tally Stevens and staff on Sept. 1.

Five Former Cougars Tackle Play-for-Pay Football Game

Largest contingent of former BYU football players ever to enter professional football will tackle the "pay-for-pay" game this fall.

No less than five former Cougar players will make their pro debut with various teams when the season opens for 1960.

Two of last year's regulars, guard Lonne Dennis and quarterback Gary Dunn, have signed with the Vancouver Lions in the Canadian Football League.

Dennis was one of the finest linemen in BYU history, while Dunn, a great kicking specialist, punted the Cats to first place in national team punting standings with an average of 44.8 yards per punt.

Tackle John Kapel will try to break into the pro game with the Pittsburgh Steelers, and halfback Nyle McFarlane will join the new Dallas Rangers.

Both Kapel and McFarlane wear all-conference berths with the Cougars, and both are considered good pro prospects.

Registration for motor vehicles is free and done at the state department of agriculture. This registration is for identification only.

All students who plan to park on University parking lots between 7 a.m. and 5 p.m. on school days must display a parking permit on their motor vehicles. Caps, Christiansen said. The fee is $5 per car.

Also keep in mind of increasing bicycle traffic, every student or employee who brings a bicycle on campus is required to obtain a bicycle permit and license from the Security Office for $1.

At least one championship perhaps more, may be in the making this year when the athletes in the so-called minor sports go to work on opponents.

The sure spice of nearly any spring and summer sport is found in track and field. Now that the Cougars have an indoor area (fieldhouse extension) to practice in, the chances are good that BYU may come off its seventh consecutive conference title.

BYU's energetic baseball coach, Glen Tuckett, should have another scrappy team ready when the spring season rolls around. The Cats have come down to the wire last March and a general improvement is probable.

Some building, and some improvement, is also forecast for the golf, tennis and wrestling teams.
